CAN USE THE OLD ONE

Judge Fitzgerald Says That the old Register

CAN BE USED AT THE BOND ELECTION.

This Being the Case No Voter in Berkeley Will Lose His Vote a Week From Saturday.

Can Use the Old One

District Attorney Snook has received a letter from the Attorney-General in which it is shown that it is not necessary for residents in the country towns in which elections are to be held prior to the forthcoming general election to be registered in the new great register as a pre-requisite for voting at those town elections. Where such local elections are to be held, registration in the cancelled great register will suffice for voting.

After referring to the fact that the old great register had been cancelled by the supervisors, the Attorney General says:

"I see that there are to be several elections to be held before the next general election in said county, namely: a municipal election at Haywards, a special bond election in Berkeley, and also an election in the city of Alameda. You ask whether or not the electors may vote by virtue of their names being on the old register, and not whether or not the act entitled 'An act concerning special elections' (statutes 1878-8-73 is applicable to municipal elections.)

"I am of the opinion that the section of the Political Code, under which the order of the Board of Supervisors of the 17th of February was made, ordering a new registration of voters, applies to the next general election and elections subsequent to that only, and that the cancellation of the last printed great register does not take effect till the new great register ordered by the Board of Supervisors is printed. Therefore, at any special municipal election, held prior to the time the new great register shall be printed, the great register which was used at the next preceding general election should be used.

"The act of 1878 Statutes 1877 78-73, provides that at any special election held in any county, copies of the Great Register printed and used at the next preceding general election shall be used. The election to be held in Berkeley comes within the statute. As to whether or not the act applies to municipal elections it is unnecessary to determine for reasons given above. The act, however, serves to show the general intention of the Legislature as to the use of the register at election other than general elections. Respectfully, W. F. FITZGERALD, Attorney-General."

Improved Transit.

It looks now as if the railroad company would be forced to increase the accommodations for the traveling public between Berkeley, Alameda and Oakland. The proposition is to run the boats every twenty minutes, morning and evening, at first, to connect with the locals. While there was travel enough last summer to warrant the change to accommodate the public, it is quite certain that the railroad did not feel like adding to their expense such a large item as the change will naturally make, until the traffic had grown to such an extent as to make the change permanent.

As it will be observed the proposed improvement will, at first, be only morning and evenings, when most of the people between the city and Berkeley, Alameda and Oakland go to and from. As the number of passengers increase the number of trips during the day will be made to conform to it.

The trains which now come to Berkeley, leaving San Francisco at half past five and six o'clock in the afternoon, consist of eigh and nine cars. Even with this number it is difficult to get a seat when starting from the mole. Again this fact being known, there is a great rush of the passengers so as to get a chance to set down. This hurry skurry is certainly very disagreeable and particularly bad for ladies who cannot crowd along like men. Furthermore it requires two engines to pull the trains that arrive at the hours mentioned.

It Berkeley is to be really accommodated in making a change from the present time table there should be half hour trains run through the middle of the day and a half hour train at half past seven o'clock in the evening, starting the hourly trains at 8 o'clock instead of seven.

These are the changes which Berkeley wants and ask for. It remains to be seen whether the Railroad Company will give our people the desired accommodation or not. It would certainly be a great aid in building up the town which would greatly benefit the railroad people in the end. With this often transit in our favor Berkeley would grow at a rate much more astonishing than at present which is certainly very gratifying to all of those interested in the progress of the go-ahead University town.

WAS A SUFFERER

And Gives His Experience to Fellow Sufferers.

Correspondence Solicited.

To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that I have been subject to attacks of rheumatism for the past forty years, at times being perfectly helpless for several weeks. My feet and hands were swollen so badly as to lose all appearance of original shape. Constant pain nearly deprived me of my reason. My attention was called to your medicine by a centarian. Three doses made me want to live a little longer, and at the end of one week my breath was restored. This was day before yesterday, and I now hasten to send you this certificate. I am well known in this vicinity and my being connected with a newspaper precludes any possibility of any prevarication.

Signed and sealed this, the first day of April, 1896.

I would further state that I have had one thousand copies of the foregoing affidavits printed and will forward a certified copy of the same to any proprietor of any rheumatic medicine ever put on the market. This is about the number of remedies I have tried and think that the number of certificates will be sufficient to go around. If it should happen that I have missed any I am perfectly willing to give them a trial the next time the pain comes on, and with them have more certificates printed and furnished at the extreme low price of 25 cents each. Apply to the GAZETTE office.

P. S.—Supplementary certificates will be issued for the benefit of any person that will hereafter tell me of a sure cure for the rheumatism. These will be placed at ten cents each or three for a quarter, so that they will come within the reach of all. Here is where I expect to make lots of money, and will then quit pushing a pencil for a sustenance just enough to keep what is classically called the poor man's gout always on hand.

Buying Bicycles.

There are one or two points to be considered when you buy your wheel and the first of them is strength. Wheels are running a trifle heavier this year than last. A foolish public demands a spider thread wheel last year and the manufacturer gave it to them.

That craze died a natural death. This year men are riding 22, 23 and 24-pound wheels, where last year they bestrode 18, 19 and 20-pound machines. So be careful that your wheel is heavy enough.

ABOUT REGISTRATION

County Clerk Frank Jordan Says That

EVERY VOTER IN THE COUNTY SHALL BE REGISTERED.

Postal Cards Will Be Sent to all During the Next Sixty Days.

News for Voters.

County Clerk Jordan has issued the following letter to set the minds of voters at rest, who have sent in their affidavits of registration:

—Editor GAZETTE.—Kindly through the columns of your journal inform voters that those who have sent in their affidavits of registration will receive postals as soon as it is possible to examine, precinct, file, compile and register the same. Give your readers to understand that the sending out of the postals is not a legal requirement, but that in order to avoid mistakes and to put voters at ease concerning their registration, I have undertaken as soon as possible after affidavits are received and before the close of registration to inform all who have made such affidavits of the fact of the actual entry of their names upon the Great Register.

It is estimated that there will be about 22,000 names on the next Great Register. In 39 days we have taken in nearly 13,000 affidavits and there are now over four months to secure the remaining 9000. This great rush has necessarily delayed the sending out of postals.

State for the benefit of your readers whose affidavits have been sent in that if within the next sixty days postals are not received they should then make inquiries. After the rush is over there will be less delay in sending out postals, also please inform your readers that I did hope to be able to furnish affidavits of registration partly filled out to each voter in the county whose name was on the last Great Register and also ie the last published directories and those who were actual residents of the different townships.

In the city of Oakland I have prepared and mailed over 10,000 such affidavits, and am now having prepared affidavits for the remaining districts. The task I find is a difficult one, because it is necessary to segregate the names of those who have already registered from those to be registered, and this necessarily takes a good deal of time.

Assure your readers that I earnestly desire to have on the next Great Register the name of every man in this county who is entitled to vote, and to that end have appointed a large number of deputies for the accommodation of the voters in the different districts of the County and to facilitate the work of registration. All I ask is that the voters will give reasonable attention to this matter, which concerns them so directly, and present their affidavits as soon as possible. Very truly,
JAMES L. JORDAN,
County Clerk.

The meeting of the Populists and Socialists advertised in another column will take place this evening at their club rooms on University avenue next to the corner of Fifth street, in the rooms formerly occupied by W. R. Dickieson. A large attendance is desired as business of the utmost importance will come before the meeting.

Edwin Grindley, Clifford Baxter and Ernest Allen, three young lads who left on Monday last on foot for Mount Diablo, returned last evening and state that they had a most enjoyable time. They were weary and footsore, however, and their parents have considerable doubt as to the extent of the boys' enjoyment.

NO GIVE IN.

It Is What Mrs. Dr. Crowley Says About Her Divorce.

The Crowleys' Troubles.

Nothing particularly new has developed in the trouble between Dr. Crowley and wife, of Oakland. Friends have been doing all in their power to bring about a reconciliation, but thus far they have been unsuccessful.

A friend of Dr. Crowley stated to a reporter last night that Dr. Crowley is a much abused man, and that his wife desires to get rid of him because she is enamored of another physician in Oakland.

It is alleged that she has been suffering from an affliction of the eyes of late, and did not desire her husband to treat them, but went to Dr. Adams for treatment.

Dr. Crowley, it is said, objected to his wife going to another physician as it reflected upon his skill as a physician, and this caused an unpleasantness between himself and wife. This same person states that Dr. Crowley, just the day before his wife left him, deeded to her his elegant home on Alice street and as soon she had the property secured she had it homesteaded in her name. He says it is all a plot to defraud the doctor out of his property.

Mrs. Crowley tells another story. She states that she has been a parent of Dr. Adams at the request of her husband, and that he has been very cruel and brutal to her, striking her on many occasions, and using such language that she has been compelled to send the children away from the house to prevent them from hearing him. She states that she witnessed his infidelity with her own eyes, and will be satisfied with nothing but an absolute divorce.

NOW IT IS BOOMING

The Boys and Girls are in Dead Earnest

IN THEIR EFFORTS TO WIN THE PRIZE

Of a Trip to the Springs for Their Favorite School Teacher.

Hundreds of Votes.

The contest for the most popular teacher is now becoming extremely exciting, and the votes are coming into this office by the hundreds for the different candidates. Mrs. Wilkes still maintains first lead, and has gone away ahead of the 1000 mark.

Hundreds of votes also come in for Miss Hamlin, and she, too, has passed the thousand mark. Miss Squires, of the North Berkeley school, received several hundred votes today, and she is fast coming to the top of the heap.

Dozens of boys and girls are now in the field working for the different teachers whom they favor, and they are bringing subscriptions to this office the dozens every day, which keeps our route agent on the jump to see that they are delivered. In this direction we desire our solicitors to ascertain, after they have handed in the name of any subscriber, whether the person is being served, as we don't wish any of our subscribers to be slighted, but want them all to get their papers regularly every evening.

We learn that by Monday next there will be 10 or 15 more teachers in the race, and that their friends will cast plumpers for them by bringing several yearly subscriptions. There is lots of time, however, and many names that do now appear, may soon be dangerously close to the top of the list, while others who now have only a few votes will also make it lively for those who are now leaders.

Because a teacher has only a dozen or so votes now is no indication that they will not have several hundred tomorrow. The boys and girls are just getting warmed up in this fight and now it will be a battle royal until the first day of June. While they are all very anxious for their teachers to win the first prize they are not overlooking the fact that they have an opportunity of winning a fine bicycle or shotgun or one of the numerous other prizes that the GAZETTE is offering as premiums.

Miss Louise Lauterbach, Archie Taber, Charles Edgar and George Crabtree are doing some lively work and it is nip and tuck with them as to who shall keep in the lead. As they are all rustlers the fight between them will be watched by their young friends with considerable interest. They will have to watch their present standing very close as there are others who are steadily coming to the front and who will make things lively for them very shortly.

BERKELEY'S WAY

Of Experimenting with Roentgen's Cathode Rays.

Origin of X Rays.

Professors Cory and Le Conte of the University of California have made some experiments with Roentgen rays during the past week which have developed some very important results. Their investigations were carried on in the electrical laboratory, and were conducted with the object of determining the source of X rays. Lodge, Porter, Hicks and many other scientists have advanced theories that the origin of the ray is where the negative stream first impinges against the solid and yields up its negative charge. Professor Cory found that his experiments thoroughly verified these theories, and, in addition ascertained, it is thought, that the origin of the rays depends entirely upon the shape of the tube, and the character and form of the electrodes. Many physicists, however, have announced that the rays come from the anode, and others that they originate from fluorescent gloss. The photographs have been developed, and the experiments will continue with different tubes to definitely settle the matter.

BROWN CONVICTED

Of Not Being Particularly Truthful About

SENDING OUT THE NEWS OF HIS RECENT TRIAL.

Telegrams Received Here From Kalamazoo Prove This More Scandal is Revived.

Special dispatches to the GAZETTE.

Brown Convicted.

San Francisco, March 27—The more the developments the more Dr. Brown appears in the unenviable light of a man who holds the truth lightly. Facts have just come to light which are corroborative of the charge that he imposed upon Night Editor Fraser of the United Press in having him send out a press telegram that he had been acquitted on every charge. It appears now that Brown went further and sent telegrams of precisely the same effect over his own signature. When he was confronted with the evidence of his imposition on the United Press, Brown denied that he had dictated the telegram to Fraser. The dictation, he said, had been done by Attorney Nagle.

Though there there were several witnesses to his act, he secured a statement signed by Nagle and a representative of the Pacific, the Congregational organ that he had not dictated the telegram. The findings of the council were returned on the night of the 17th. The Kalamazoo Telegraph of the 18th has reached this city, and in it is a copy of a telegram sent by Brown to friends of his in Kalamazoo, as follows:

L. M. GATES AND OTHERS—Dear Friends: I am acquitted on every charge. C. O. BROWN.

The Telegraph at the same time published the findings of the council in full and the editor remarked he could not reconcile the findings with Brown's statement.

It will be very difficult for Dr. Brown to saddle the responsibility of this telegram on those who have identified themselves with him in his troubles, as it contains grammatical ear-marks which point to him as the author, and the original is said to be in his peculiar handwriting.

There is something else in store for Dr. Brown at the conference. If the latest reports should prove true the trouble he had in Rochester is not the only occasion before this when he was the center of a scandal. A letter has reached this city from a gentleman who occupies a responsible position, but who does not want his name mentioned, which has furnished the basis for an investigation.

The letter in part is as follows:

"I have noted with some regret the turn affairs have taken with reference to Dr. Brown. I lived in Kalamazoo and know of matters which took place there between Dr. Brown and his servant girl, which was a public matter, thoroughly discussed in the press, and which would convince that the vote of confidence from Kalamazoo, published in the Associated dispatch, was but [illegible] since there are affidavits in possession of a party who used his influence to defeat this over-pious impostor."

A LOST MAN.

Friends of a San Francisco Man Searching for Him in Berkeley.

Where Is He?

A couple of ladies from San Francisco called at the deputy coroner's office on Center street this morning in search of a man named Henry Monferran, who has been missing from his home at 1002 Pacific street, near Mason, in San Francisco, since yesterday morning.

The ladies say that he has never before stayed away from home over night, and they are fearful that something has happened to him. Their reason for visiting Berkeley in search of him was that he owns some property here, and frequently comes over to look at it, and spend the day in the hills. When he did not return home last evening they felt sure that something had happened to him. They visited the morgue in San Francisco, and the police office, and not finding him at either of those places, came to the conclusion that he must have visited Berkeley and gone to the hills hunting, and either shot himself, or met with some accident that prevented him from communicating with his home.

The missing man is described as a man about 47 years of age, 5 feet, 8 inches in height, and weighing about 165 pounds; dark complexion; wears a [illegible] hair mixed with grey. He wore brown striped pants and vest and a Cardigan jacket, and an old navy-blue overcoat and black slouch hat.

Any person who has seen the man or who can give any information as to his whereabouts will confer a great favor upon his friends if they will communicate with Mrs. Williams at 422 Scott street, San Francisco. They can be reached by telephone by calling up station at the corner of Scott and Oak streets.

SHOULD HAVE BEEN TARRED AND FEATHERED.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson, an Eastern Evangelist, has been holding meetings in the Southern part of the State. For the past two weeks he has been holding services in Fresno and on Wednesday evening last he surprised and chagrined the people of that city by making the announcement that two-thirds of the young girls of Fresno had lost their virtue before they had reached the age of fourteen years. The charge when it was made, dazed the people of Fresno and they did not recover themselves until yesterday. Then the full force of the charge was realized and the leading citizens of the town who have young daughters, called a mass meeting of the citizens to discuss the affair.

When the meeting was called to order the Rev. Mr. Johnson was sent for, but it was not until after repeated messages had been sent to him that he responded. When he came into the meeting he was asked upon what he based his authority in making such a slanderous statement upon the reputations of the young girls of Fresno.

He candidly admitted that he knew nothing of his own knowledge, but stated that a friend of his had made the statement to him. He then signed a statement saying that he had been misled, and recalled the statement. The Committee then suggested that the reverend gentleman make himself scarce about Fresno, as they would not be responsible for his safety. He refused to go, and the committee washed its hands of him. He then left the meeting and went upon the street, where an angry mob had collected, who, when they had caught sight of him, made a rush for him. He then hastily retreated to the committee room, and asked for protection. This was afforded him, and the Sheriff was sent for, who conducted him to a place of safety.

A committee was then appointed to once more confer with Mr. Johnson and ask him to leave town. At first he refused, but finally consented, and when darkness came he was driven to a place of safety outside of Fresno. It was thought to Selma although the Sheriff would not tell where he had taken him to.

We imagine that the Rev. Mr. Johnson is just such another individual as the Rev. C. O. Brown, and regret very much that the people of Fresno did not give him a coat of tar and feathers before they allowed him to depart from town.

Such men are a disgrace to the cloth and the sooner the public arises in its majesty and makes an example of these moral lepers, who hide under the cloak of religion, the sooner will the morals of our people be better and the sooner will there be few r scoffers at religion.

THROWING COLD WATER.

Our evening contemporary has a knack of throwing cold water upon every new industry that is started in Berkeley and its latest attack is upon the new Glass Works that are being started in West Berkeley. In its last issue is has an article under the heading "Will Holt Succeed?" as follows:

"A number of business men and manufacturers, who are posted in the history of various West Berkely enterprises, in discussing the question as to whether or not the experiment of conducting a glass works independently of the San Francisco trust would prove a success, have given it as their opinion that as long as the glass works just established at West Berkeley does not come into opposition with the San Francisco manufacturers of the same article, Holt's project will go through. They instanced the match factory started at West Berkeley sometime ago. It turned out the best matches, and was able to dispose of them at a price that hurt the San Francisco manufacturers. The city manufacturers got together and agreed to sell their product at a ruinous price. The West Berkeley factory could not meet the price and was compelled to suspend operations. So, they say as long as the new glass factory does not hurt the city people it will be a success."

We are sorry that such articles should occur in any Berkeley paper, as they only tend to discourage manufacturers from coming to Berkeley. There is no truth in the statements published, that if a Berkeley manufacturer comes into competition with San Francisco manufacturers he is crushed out of business.

Any man who comes to Berkeley and establishes himself in business, can compete with any manufacturer in San Francisco if he understands his business. In the first place his expenses are far less than those of the San Francisco manufacturer inasmuch as his rent is very much less, his fuel is much cheaper and his labor is just as cheap. Mr. Holt is a man who understands his business and he is going into it without asking any bonus from the people, or any advice from the newspapers.

WILL NOT BE RIGHT.

There is a movement on foot in San Francisco to have the Wilmerding Industrial School made a part of the Lick Industrial School of that city, and it is said that the project is favored to a certain extent by a number of the Regents of the University.

We cannot see how they can even contemplate such a plan, for the late Mr. Wilmerding expressly bequeathed the $400,000 for the purpose of starting an Industrial School, which was to become an adjunct of the State University.

If it is to be consolidated with the Lick Industrial school, then the wishes of the deceased will not have been carried out, and we believe that the heirs of Mr. Wilmerding could commence suit for the recovery of the money as it would not be put to the use for which it was bequeathed.

There is no doubt in anybody's mind but what Mr. Wilmerding when he made the bequest expected that the school would be located in Berkeley, as he was always an admirer of our beautiful town and not in San Francisco or any other place. He did not intend that his bequest should be hawked about and be given to the town that would bid the highest for it.

Our fellow-townsman, F. K. Shattuck, made an offer of one of the finest sites in the State to the Regents, but after waiting for several months, and never receiving an acknowledgement of his offer, he withdrew it. It is possible that at the request of many citizens of Berkeley he may renew the offer, and it is hoped that it will be promptly accepted by the Board of Regents.

Should the Board of Regents consolidate the Wilmerding school with the Lick school of San Francisco, it will not only be an injustice to the State University, but it will hurt it, for it will keep other people from making any bequests to the University, for fear that after their death their wishes will not be carried out.

We hope that the Board of Regents will soon settle the matter and put the Wilmerding School where it belongs—in Berkeley.

WILL SAVE MONEY.

On our local page will be found the opinion of Attorney Fitzgerald in reference to the Great Register. By his opinion which says that the old Great Register shall be used for all elections between now and next November, the Town of Berkeley will save about $200 on the coming bond election, and, it will not now be necessary to print a new Register specially for the coming election, as was contemplated by the Board of Trustees. The opinion of Judge Fitzgerald came just in time, as in a few days more the names would have been ready for the printer.

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY.

Is Now Offered to Those Who Have Money to Invest in a Legitimate Enterprise.

The Alameda and Santa Barbara Development Co. which was incorporated for the purpose of developing oil wells at Summerland, have now decided to offer 1000 shares of their capital stock at $1 50 per share, the par value of which is $3 00. The Company have now 4 oil wells producing 50 barrels per day, besides a water well which will save an outlay of $35 per month besides having an abundance of water to sell to others, it being the only water well in the country.

No effort has been made heretofore to dispose of stock, but on account of the increasing demand for oil and the recent advance in price they are anxious to put down at least 10 more wells as soon as possible and more money is needed for that purpose. There whole output is sold faster than can be delivered besides offers have been made for all they can produce at the well.

When their property is fully developed, they expect to produce 400 barrels per day, as they have sufficient territory for 40 wells.

There being an underground flow to the ocean, the supply is inexhaustible.

Summerland is situated six miles south of Santa Barbara, on the Ventura branch railroad, and on the completion of the gap from Ellwood north will be on the main line to Los Angeles.

The company owning property on both sides of the railroad extending to the ocean gives them splendid facilities for shipping by rail or water, as a wharf is about to be built, there being a natural harbor opposite their property.

They are fully equipped with steam power, pumping plant, and other machinery necessary for the work, and also tank room for 500 barrels.

They are not wanting money to prospect at other people's expense, but to develop that which is an absolute certainty, and can be vouched for by the most reliable authority.

The Company is composed of well known business men of Berkeley.

LOVE AND ROSES.

A wild rose drank of the morning dew,
A wild rose smiled at the morning sun,
A wild rose roamed the wood-ways through,
A wild rose died when the day was done.

And ever the rose was fair, was sweet,
And ever the Rose was shy,
But the life of love, like a rose, is fleet,
And a rose in a day will die.

It read on a day that love once grew
In the loam of the heart like a rose,
Like a rose it smiled in the morning dew,
Like a rose it died at the sweet day's close.

And ever the love was fair, was sweet,
And ever the love was shy,
But the life of love, like a rose, is fleet,
And a love in a day will die.

—John N. Hilliard in Vanity.

SOME SIGNS OF APPROACHING AGE.

How a Man Showed That He Was Growing Old Without Knowing It.

A man, apparently slightly past middle life, whose hair was tinged with gray and noticeably thin on top, sat near me at a theater. As the curtain rose for the first time a spectacled man of about the same age entered and occupied the vacant seat between us. He looked at the other fixedly. The look was exchanged, and in a second each had the other cordially by the hand. The conversation told that they had been schoolmates who had not met in many years.

"By Jove, Charlie," exclaimed the first, "it does me good to see you. You haven't changed much more than I have, and I am not a day older than when we got our diplomas."

"I can't quite agree with you, Tom," answered the other, "but I don't feel very old y I see you still enjoy the theater, an suppose you have kept up your literary tastes for the past 80 years."

"Thirty years!" repeated Tom. "How the years fly! Do you remember how they used to drag? Theaters! Well, I go now and then, but the plays and acting are not what they used to be. As to books, I still read them, but none of the modern trash. There hasn't been a good book written for a quarter of a century. The new ones give me the dyspepsia worse than what I eat. Do you remember the meals we had on the old Vermont farm? Those were happy days. Thirty years and more ago! Strange, but I don't discover a sign of age. I wonder where this confounded draft is coming from. I feel neuralgia on top of my head now."

"Tom, old boy," replied the other, "you are deceiving yourself, for you have shown marked signs of approaching age within three minutes. Your belief that theaters and actors have degenerated, that new books are below the standard, that childhood cooking was perfection and that time flies so very fast are all indications that you are on the down hill side of life. The slight draft that you say brings a tinge of neuralgia to the top of your head, where, I notice, the hair is rather thin, wouldn't have been thought of 30 years ago. Then here you are in the very front seat of a theater. No use denying the signs, Tom. We are getting along and must admit what others plainly see."—New York Times.

How the Last Juror Was Won.

Dr. Robert D. Sheppard, business agent of the Northwestern university, relates a story of how the other was a lawsuit which illustrates the manner in which lawyers sometimes adapt themselves to their juries.

"There was no question," said Dr. Sheppard, "but that I was in the right of the case. The evidence was conclusive, the law was on my side, and when my attorney arose to make his opening address he thought he had the case won. He briefly reviewed the evidence, stated the law in the case, and was about to close his argument when he noticed that one of the jurors, a solid old farmer, did not seem to be with him. The other 11 men had already decided the case in their own minds, but the farmer had a sluggish set expression on his countenance which boded no good for me or my case. Again my lawyer reviewed the evidence, addressing his remarks entirely to this one man, but no impression was made. The same solid expression still occupied the man's face, and he seemed little likely to be moved as the courthouse in which the trial was taking place. The attorney tried all kinds of arguments, and finally, when he was about giving up in despair, a happy thought struck him. He repeated again the bare facts, and when he came to a place where the person opposing me had made an erroneous error in judgment he leaned over to the old farmer and said:

"'And I want to tell you, my friend that there's where he dropped his water melon.'

"The old farmer's face lighted up, and from that moment the case was won. The jury was out less than five minutes and brought back a verdict for all that I had asked."—Chicago Chronicle.

It Was In His Bill.

That reminds me of a story they tell about Rudyard Kipling — indeed, I won't be sure that it isn't he who tells it. He staid at a hotel once upon a time in Montreal, I think it was, and when he came to go away he asked for the landlord. The landlord appeared.

"I wanted to see you," said Mr. Kipling, "because you are a wonderful man. I have never known your equal. I have sojourned in hotels all around the world. I have never seen one like this."

The landlord swelled with pride. He was about to say something when Kipling continued:

"Nothing when you knew how to do it." He was in a seventh heaven of delight. Mr. Kipling waited till he neared earth again. Then he resumed:

"I want to tell you that of all the hotels under the shining sun I have never seen one that for unmitigated, all round, unendurable discomfort could not even be named in the same day with yours."

And when Mr. Kipling's bill was made out, one item in it read, "To impudence, $3." But what's $3, when one has spoken one's mind?—Washington Post.

No Chance For the Judge.

At Harrodsburg one day Judge Cardwell summoned a negro boy in his court to testify in a case. The following conversation then took place between his honor and the boy:

"Do you know good from bad?"

"Yes, sir, boss, s'pec so, duz."

"Can you distinguish the truth from falsehood?"

"Yes, sah, I kin 'extinguish truth or anything else off you'll gimme muff water."

"Do you know what will become of you if you testify to a lie?"

"No, sah, jedge. Duz you?"

"Where does the devil live?"

"You'll nober git to see him. He lives in heaven."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Let Us Hope They Got a Good Dinner.

When Hall Caine first came to this country, he was invited to Philadelphia by an old friend and fellow Manxman. A New York litterateur who found himself in the Quaker City attended a dinner at which all the 12 guests were talking about the expected lion and his books and looking forward to meeting him. The New York man confessed to knowing Mr. Caine's books only through reviews, and asked the lady at his right which one of the novels he should read first. She answered that she was in the same predicament. The question finally went around the table, and the company laughed to discover that only one person had ever read one of Mr. Caine's books.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Unique Mail Service.

The inhabitants of the small group of islands situated on the south of Iceland possess a very curious method of communication in their so called "bottle post." When the wind blows from the south and one of the islanders wishes to communicate with the mainland, he puts his letters into a well corked bottle, and to insure their delivery he incloses at the same time a plug or twist of tobacco or a cigar. The wind speedily impels the bottle to the shores of the mother island, where people are usually on the lookout who are willing to deliver the contents of the bottle in return for the inclosed remuneration.

People Who Patronize Banks.

There is one savings bank here which keeps an accurate record of the calling of its depositors. During the last year there was only one actor on the list, while there were 1,392 tailors; there was but one editor, while there were 725 laborers; there was but one boarding house keeper and 337 peddlers. There were lots of shoemakers, bakers, barbers, waiters, cigar makers, but very few musicians, liquor dealers, lawyers or policemen.—Chicago Tribune.

Remarkable Natural Bridge.

One of the many natural wonders of Arizona scenery made accessible by the opening up of rail and stage roads is a remarkable natural bridge, in the Tonto basin, not far from Flagstaff. The bridge is 550 feet long, and spans a canyon some 200 feet deep, at the bottom of which flows the river. The bridge is of rock and is perfectly proportioned. The underside is gracefully arched and the upper perfectly level. The walls of the canyon are honeycombed with caves in which are a great profusion of stalactites and stalagmites.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Congressman Bailey's Dress.

Congressman Bailey of Texas thus replies to recent criticisms of his dress: "I have always held that society had no right, by its dictum, to regulate the style of a man's clothes. Ever since I could afford it, I have dressed just as I do today. I have worn the same black broadcloth suit, cut in the same style; the same style of broad shirt front and a white tie; the same kind of collar and broad black felt hat. I wear these clothes regardless of the day of the week or the hour or of society's dictation because I believe they become me, and they please my wife. There is a rule of society which prescribes that a dress suit shall not be worn until after 6 o'clock in the evening. If I chose to wear a dress suit, I would feel free to put it on in the morning or evening, or at noon, just as the fancy dictated. It seems to me that the society rule which attempts to regulate a man's dress is autocratic. The rule prescribing dress originated in the old customs of the court nobility. We are simply imitating these old aristocrats when we bar a person out of society because he does not dress in the fashion. If men showed more independence in the matter of dress, they would soon be able to break over the society restraints, and after that anybody could wear whatever he chose to, so long as he conformed to the law of the land and wore something. So far as I am concerned, I shall continue to wear whatever suits me and at the same time meets the approval of my wife."

Staple, Barstaple.

In Anglo-Saxon the word "stapol," "stapel" or "stapul" denoted a post or pillar of wood or stone. In local names it has various significations. Such posts or pillars were often erected to mark places where markets were held or where merchandise could be exposed for sale. Such probably were Dunstaple, in Bedfordshire, a market on the chalk downs, and Barnstaple, in Devon. Sometimes the stapel was a post marking the place of the hundred moots.

We have hundreds called Barnstaple and Thurstable in Essex, and one called Staple in Sussex. There are seven places called Stapleton, but as none of them is a market town they were probably merely farmsteads marked by a post, one of them, called Stapleham in Domesday, being a hill with a post. So of the nine Staplefords none is a marked town, and they were probably fords marked or protected by piles or posts. Staplebridge, Dorset, called Staplebridge in Domesday, was probably a trestle bridge. Whitestable in Kent must have taken its name from a white pillar, erected either for a market or as a guide to ships entering the harbor, or to which boats could be moored. Staplehurst [illegible] was a wood marked by a [illegible] stumps or posts were left standing.—Notes and Queries.

She Was Too Sharp For Them.

One day last winter a stylishly dressed woman stepped from a coach in front of a big dry goods store in New York and proceeding to the fur department selected a seal wrap worth $300. In payment she tendered a check for $1,000, which the saleswoman took to the office. A messenger was dispatched to the bank, and he was told that the check was good. Meantime the woman pretended to be indignant, demanded a return of the check, would accept no apologies and drove away. Presently she returned and said she had allowed her temper to overcome her and ordered the cloak wrapped up. She was given $700 in change and disappeared. A second visit to the bank disclosed the fact that the woman had withdrawn the $1,000 she had on deposit there and that the check was worthless.

Mr. Gratebar's Advice to Philip.

"It isn't new, the idea of living within one's income," said Mr. Gratebar, "but I am trying to impress on Philip the importance of beginning in his youth. I don't want him to be mean or stingy, but I do want him to save something every year, without interruption, and to begin when he is young. Begun early and kept up continuously, it is almost wonderful how even small savings accumulate. There is scarcely a man who cannot provide himself with a moderate fortune from his savings alone by beginning early and keeping at it.

"Old? Of course it's old; old as the hills, but how many of us have profited by it? And I want Philip to begin now."—New York Sun.
